

International Studies Schools Association 6th Annual Conference – Portland, Oregon January 25-27, 2007

All Classes Through Global Glasses is a conference designed to give you great ideas, resources, and creative ways to infuse your classes and curriculum with an international viewpoint. It is an excellent resource for educators in an increasingly interconnected world.

- 🌐 Affordable priced for your budget
- 🌐 Practical nuts and bolts of internationalizing your curriculum
- 🌐 Useful graduate credits available
- 🌐 Incredible according to past attendees

"This conference was organized beautifully! I fully enjoyed every single session I attended. The selection was phenomenal – so much care for diversity, intellectual stimulation, and practical application was put into the offerings. I did not want to miss a thing, and indeed I have not."

Jenne Scherer, Educator, Exploris Middle School

"It has invigorated me and inspired me. It has validated our program for me. Also, I've reevaluated what an international studies program can and ought to be. I've realized there are many ways to 'globalize' my classroom that I never considered."

ISSA Conference Attendee

"Your conference provided my teachers with an awareness of the NEED to integrate the global theme with our state curriculum. We want to see a shift in the thinking of our staff so that there is a seamless integration of the global theme... The evening social functions created a forum for great dialogue.... It was worth the trip!"

Myrna C. Meehan, Principal, Winding Springs Elementary School

Who should attend?

- Principals & Superintendents
- K-12 teachers of math, science, language arts, social studies, world languages, PE, and art
- Curriculum Supervisors

What is the International Studies Schools Association?

The ISSA is a national network of K-12 schools that are dedicated to improving students' understanding of the world. Our network is the number one source for information and resources on preparing your students for today's global society.

For more information call (800) 967-2847 x 1
www.intlschools.org